Week 5

Week beginning
20.04.2020

 Year 2 lessons 21 April: English Abc  Writing and asking questions 21 April - To understand the different forms of sentences: statement, question, command and exclamation...	Hello Year 2. I hope that you and your family are all safe and well. We do miss having you all here at school and we are looking forward to the day when we can safely have you back again so we can meet up, catch up and have lots of fun again with our learning. We know that it is hard to do all of the things that we would have done at school when we are stuck inside our homes. Teachers are working very hard in their homes to look for and set tasks for you! We hope that they will help you learn or use some of the skill and knowledge that we have learnt about already or would have covered in the next few weeks. It is really hard to do some tasks without having the teacher there to help you learn. However there are a couple of new services that have been developed this week to help teach you new skills and knowledge aimed just for your age! Please try https://www.thenational.academy/ and BBC bitesize which have lots of nice lessons for you to watch and try out!
Maths Numbots  	Although times tables are very important, they are only one aspect of maths. Timestable rockstars is a great way to develop you multiplication and division skills, but if you want to practise your adding and subtraction, your knowledge of the number system and recall your number bonds you can try Numbots. It is made by the same people who made Timestables Rockstars and you can use the same login and username to access this resource. Your username is the first 3 letters of your firstname, followed by the first 3 letters of your surname. I.e Harry Potter would be harpot. Your password is 3 letters long and was sent to you by text. If you need your password again, please contact the school by contacting the school. Telephone: 01902556463 Email: StowlawnPrimary.GroupEmail@wolverhampton.gov.uk
Reading Roald Dahl!  There are plenty more ideas for you to for those who like the twits at https://www.roalddahl.com/lessonplans	We would be having lots of fun this term at school learning about the amazing stories of Roald Dahl. At the bottom of this letter is an extract from the Twits. It tells us how horrid he is using lots of adjectives. Read through the description and find as many adjectives (describing words) as you can. Make a list! Here is a challenge! Can you think of an adjective that starts with each letter of the alphabet! They could be nice descriptive words or adjectives that make things sound horrible ! you choose Here are a few to start you off! Nice adjectives: a amazing, b beautiful, c cheerful, d delicious Horrible adjectives: a awful, b beastly, c creepy, d dirty,
Writing - Story writing 	Mr and Mrs Twit were always playing tricks on eachother! Do you remember the worms in his spaghetti and the glass eye in his beer! Think of another trick that Mrs Twit could play on Mr Twit and write about what happened! It could be something in his breakfast or something in his socks! Any great ideas would be great to see! If you write it on Purple mash it can be shared with me and the class. I would love to read your stories!

Topic Music

Wolverhampton Music Services have been working really hard to produce some fun and accessible singing resources that have been posted to their YouTube channel, If you are stuck at home and want to sing and dance about on your own/with family then I hope you'll have a go at the videos and have some fun!

Art– Arcimboldo!

We were going to be learning about an amazing artist called Arcimboldo this term in Art and then trying to recreate some of his work using things we found in our school or in out homes! Watch this video and then have a go at making your own artwork with things that you make have around the house or garden.

If you want to find safe online information suitable for children, you could try using Kiddle. Kiddle prioritises content that is child friendly and filters out most content aimed at adults and teens.

Remember to keep safe online.

If you see something that makes you feel worried or upset, tell your parents or carers.

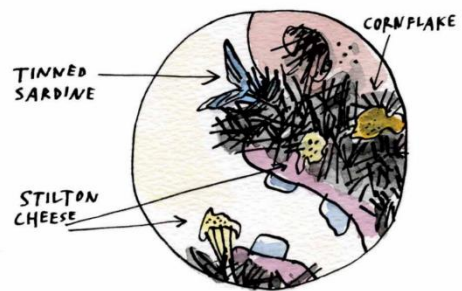

The Twits extract! Find the adjectives – some are marked in red

Mr Twit didn't even bother to open his mouth wide when he ate. As a result (and because he never washed) there were always hundreds of bits of old breakfasts and lunches and suppers sticking to the hairs around his face. They weren't big bits, mind you, because he used to wipe those off with the back of his hand or on his sleeve while he was eating. But if you looked closely (not that you'd ever want to) you would see tiny little specks of dried-up scrambled eggs stuck to the hairs, and spinach and tomato ketchup and fish fingers and minced chicken livers and all the other disgusting things Mr Twit liked to eat.

If you looked closer still (hold your noses, ladies and gentlemen), if you peered deep into the moustachy bristles sticking out over his upper lip, you would probably see much larger objects that had escaped the wipe of his hand, things that had been there for months and months, like a piece of maggoty green cheese or a mouldy old cornflake or even the slimy tail of a tinned sardine.

Because of all this, Mr Twit never went really hungry. By sticking out his tongue and curling it sideways to explore the hairy jungle around his mouth, he was always able to find a tasty morsel here and there to nibble on.
